KENTUCKY DISASTERS

NOVEMBER 16, 2022

SITUATION

In December 2021, western Kentucky was hit by a series of deadly and destructive tornadoes, destroying over 1,300 homes. In July 2022, record-setting floods inundated communities in eastern Kentucky. The flooding caused heavy damage to homes and local infrastructure. Recovery in both areas will take years.

RESPONSE

Since December, Lutheran Disaster Response has been working closely with the Indiana-Kentucky Synod in developing long-term recovery plans for each disaster. In each region, the synod is collaborating with local partners to repair and rebuild homes damaged by the tornadoes and flooding. The grants from Lutheran Disaster Response are being used for construction material and labor costs.

HOW YOU CAN HELP

Pray

Let us pray for our neighbors affected by the recent disasters in Kentucky. May God's healing presence give them comfort and hope in their time of need.
